BIOGRAPHY OF A COMIC

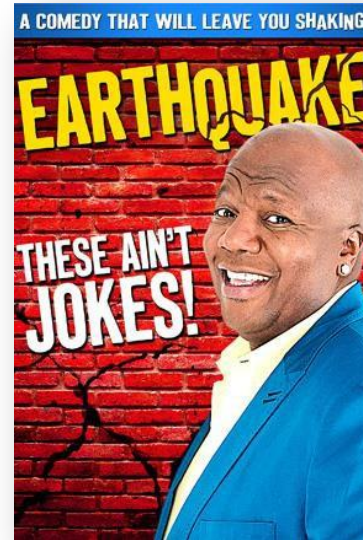

Many have heard the story about how Comedian Earthquake got started. They've heard it in any of the thousands of rooms Quake' has played as he throws it about from time to time ending his wave of comedic rhetoric with 'These ain't jokes!' And really...they're not. He really didn't have a plan B and this comedy thing really did have to work. Always moved by gut instinct, D.C.'s own Nathaniel Stroman known by all as Earthquake has defied all the odds. No one would have ever believed he'd be standing where he is right now...one of the nation's most beloved comedians. None of his childhood friends would imagine him on television... yet he's a burgeoning actor and from time to time when its absolutely significant and impressive, he's tapped as a brand messenger, the holy grail of celebrity.

CREATIVE BRANDING

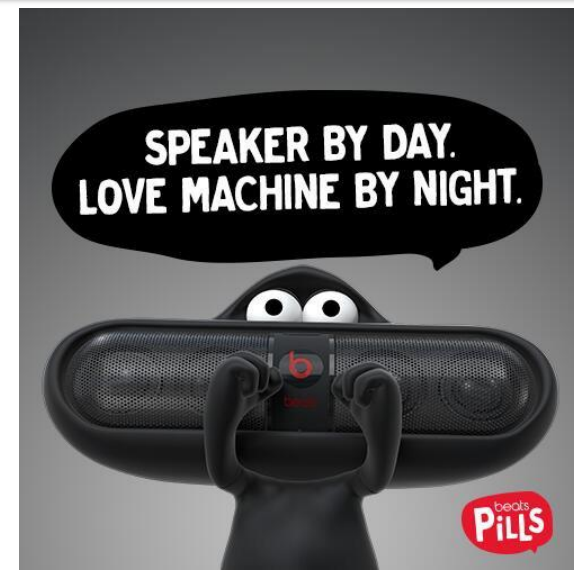

Comedian Earthquake Continues to Lend His Comic Distinction to the Marketing Efforts of Global Brands

QUAKE'S

'Off the Cuff' Goes Viral

Beats By Dre's Pill campaign sought out Comedian Earthquake for creative voice during the height of awards season for the uber popular MTV Video Music Awards. The idea was to allow the comedians non-scripted creative license while taping the animated production. What 'Quake' would say about Miley Cyrus went instantly viral; an element of the marketing the company hoped would be impacted. #SOCIALMEDIA
