RYAN FARRELL

Ryan Farrell hails from the frozen tundra of Calgary, Canada. Being Canadian, Ryan had ice skates strapped to his feet at the tender age of four, and they didn't come off for seventeen years. After that, he moved to New York to study acting at Circle in the Square Theatre School. In addition, Ryan has also trained at UCB and The PIT. Ryan's credits include multiple roles on all four seasons of "Inside Amy Schumer," a recurring role on "Red Oaks," "High Maintenance," "Younger," "Odd Mom Out," "Royal Pains," "Friends of the People," "Losing It with John Stamos" and Morgan Spurlock's "Mansome." He can be seen in multiple episodes of the hit Netflix series "Jessica Jones." He appeared in "Trainwreck" and stars in the forthcoming indie film "Zeroes." He recently starred opposite Niecy Nash in Above Average's series "As The Fire Pit Burns." Ryan continues to write and perform sketch comedy at UCB & The PIT (with UCB Maude house teams Bundt, Goodbye Handsome, and Monaco), while also writing sketches and comedic short films that have been seen at Friars Club Comedy Film Festival and the LA Comedy Festival. In addition, Ryan is actively pitching and developing original scripts/ideas to various networks.
